Annual Prize Distribution Day

The much-anticipated Annual Prize Distribution on 22nd and 23rd March 24 at The Pinnacle School had everyone feeling excited and proud of their achievements. The ceremony marked the end of the academic year, and so was the perfect opportunity to celebrate the hard work and dedication of students and staff alike. From academic achievements to sports excellence, this event was a reminder of the incredible talent and potential within our community.

The ceremony started with the lighting of the lamp. The Chief Guest, MCD Counsellor, Ms. Shikha Rai addressed the gathering and congratulated the students on doing so well. The dance performances were a perfect example of creativity and artistic impression. Other highlights of the function included a skit and a mime performed by the students, showcasing their acting skills and comic timing.

The school's Yoga Club prepared a performance including a series of movements and poses that wowed the audience. The show was truly a testament to the school's commitment to fostering creativity and self-expression.

The ceremony wouldn't be complete without the distribution of some of the most coveted awards of the year. The General Proficiency award is given to students who excel in a variety of fields, not just academics. Next were the academic awards, such as First in Class & Outstanding Student award. Along with these some special awards are also given each year for students excelling in specific fields.

The Col. Merriman award is given to the student with the Best Personality in the school.

A student who exhibits honesty, integrity, dynamism and confidence.

This year the recipient of this award was Anurag Arora from class XII, who is also the School Captain for the year 2023-24. The Mohandevi Vashisht award recognises the most talented and committed athletes in the school and it was given to Anshika Berry of class XI. Many other awards were given to the students to celebrate their talents and accomplishments.

The Annual Prize Distribution is a reminder of the amazing community at this school and it is a testament to the commitment of everyone involved to giving education that includes arts, athletics and everything in between. The students who received awards are an inspiration to us all and their dedication to their studies and passions are admirable.

AU REVOIR

A school farewell is a poignant event that marks the end of a significant chapter in the lives of students. It is a time filled with mixed emotions of nostalgia, excitement for the future and the bittersweet realization that a familiar journey is coming to an end.

Class 11, as is the tradition, gave a farewell to the outgoing batch of class XII : 2023-24. It was a hit show, full of energy and vigour. The dancing , singing and the acting skills of class XI did not go unnoticed. During the ceremony every student of class 12 was presented with a title which reminded them of the time spent in the school .

Amidst the celebrations, there was also a tinge of sadness as students prepared to part ways and embark on different paths. The familiar faces, routines and surroundings that have become a part of their daily lives will soon be replaced by new experiences and challenges.

One of the most memorable aspects of the school farewell was the sense of togetherness that permeated the atmosphere when all the students of classes 11 and 12 came together to reminisce about the countless moments they have spent in classrooms, playgrounds, and corridors. They recalled the friendships they have forged, the lessons they have learnt and the challenges they have overcome.

As the farewell came to an end, students left with a sense of gratitude for the opportunities and experiences they have had, along with a determination to make a positive impact in the world.

A Memory Forever!!!

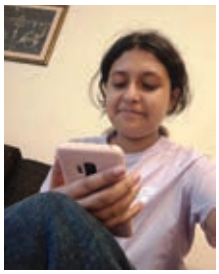

This year when my name was sent for the zonal painting competition, in the Junior girls category, I couldn't have imagined in my wildest dreams that I would win the 3rd prize at the State level.

When the results were announced I could not believe that I was the winner. The teachers at my school asked what did I draw? I answered, the topic was connecting India and I drew some Indian states all joined together and in the middle, I drew the map of India. I felt really honoured and special on receiving the award. My parents were happy with the result as I had been preparing for weeks and days for this competition. It is an unforgettable feeling , a feeling that I will cherish for ever.

MY PHONE...MY SOUL???

Sometimes I think why do I have so much affection with my phone', as I panic whenever it falls. It is depressing and heartbreaking because it contains more secrets than what I tell my friends. When it actually falls it causes terror in my mind, because I always know when I drop the phone my mother will come with a broom in her hand and give me a long lecture on how I will not get a new phone till I am in class XII. She seems more concerned for my darling phone than me.

When I thought about it, I realised that phones have certainly become an important part of not only mine but every person's life. All our important work is in our phone. Not just our work but all our memories, music, contacts are at a risk of getting lost everytime it falls.

According to me my phone is very important and I don't want to ever lose it.

BOSSY MUCH!!

In a world where adults usually guide the ship, imagine a day where the tables turn, and children take charge. What would happen if, for just one day, the roles reversed, and the young minds became the decision-makers in their educational and domestic environments?

At School: A day led by children in schools might bring about a refreshing change. The typical hierarchy would be upended as students assume the roles of teachers, administrators, and even cafeteria staff. This exercise could foster a greater sense of responsibility and empathy among students, as they grapple with the challenges and decisions faced by their educators daily.

Lessons, for instance, might take on a different flavor. Instead of traditional lectures, students might opt for interactive, hands-on activities.With children enforcing the rules for the day, the emphasis could be on understanding and dialogue. This approach may foster a sense of community and mutual respect among students.

At Home: In the household, the dynamics would be similarly transformed. Children stepping into the roles of parents for a day could offer a glimpse into the challenges and responsibilities that come with running a household. Tasks such as meal planning, grocery shopping, and budgeting would suddenly become their responsibility, teaching valuable life skills in a practical setting.

Children, often underestimated in their ability to express themselves, might use this opportunity to voice their opinions. This could promote a more democratic approach to family life, encouraging open dialogue between generations.

Adults, used to being in control, might initially find it challenging to relinquish their authority. Patience and open-mindedness would be crucial as parents and teachers navigate this unique role reversal.

To sum up everything that has been stated so far, a day where children take charge at school and home could be a transformative experience for both youngsters and adults. While challenges may arise, the potential benefits of this role reversal could contribute to a more inclusive and understanding environment, where the voices of the younger generation are not just heard but actively embraced.

A Family outing

Last Saturday my family and I went to the zoo.My father booked the tickets online.We reached the zoo at 10 AM. We saw many brids and animals.We saw a group of swans, tigers, lions , hippos etc.The zoo was very clean.I got a chance to see the wildlife. We enjoyed very much that day and returned home after having a delicious meal in Mc Donalds.

A visit to a Metro Station

On Sunday, I went to Rajiv Chowk , metro Station with my mother. People were buying tokens or using the Metro cards to reach the platform. I took a walk along the platform and noticed that there were different kinds of people at the platforms.There were many food and tea stalls.The trains were neat and clean.My mother told me that Rajiv Chowk is one of the main metro stations.Soon our metro arrived and we boarded the train.
